

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This is a one day workshop, presented by American Planning Association's Central Ohio Section, focusing on relevant planning topics and development trends for planners in and around Central Ohio. Sessions are designed for local officials, planning commission and board of zoning appeals members, community development professionals, professional planners, attorneys, architects, and other interested citizens.

REGISTRATION

Must be registered in advance. Registration deadline is May 13, 2016.

APA Ohio Members	$80	Planning Commission & Board of Zoning Appeals Members	$65
Non-APA Members	$90	Students	$40

All registration levels include lunch and the after hours reception. Parking is not included but available at surrounding parking garages and at the Renaissance Hotel for a discounted rate of $15 for the day. Credit card (VISA, MC & DISC) and check payments will be accepted. A cancellation fee of $35 will be charged after May 13, 2016.

To register, visit www.ohioplanning.org/2016CentralOhioPZ

Workshop questions? Email Kelly Brooker Scocco at kbscocco@columbus.gov
Registration questions? Email Christine Dersi at info@ohioplanning.org

Continuing Education Credits - The following types of credits are pending approval: AICP, AIA learning units, and PE professional development hours.

SPONSORSHIPS

Anyone interested in sponsoring this workshop should register online or email Kelly Brooker Scocco at kbscocco@columbus.gov. Sponsorship opportunities are available at the following levels.

GOLD $500      SILVER $250      BRONZE $100

Keynote Lunch Speaker and Evening Reception Sponsorships are also available.

KEYNOTE LUNCH SPEAKER

Mayor Andrew J. Ginther

Andrew J. Ginther was recently sworn in as the 53rd mayor of Columbus. He previously served on Columbus City Council from 2007-2015, including a term as Council President from 2011 until assuming the Office of Mayor. Under his leadership, Columbus has topped the Midwest in job creation, adding 50,000 jobs while wages grew more in Columbus than any other big city in America. The City of Columbus has been deemed America's Opportunity City, and as mayor, Andrew J. Ginther will continue to work with labor, business, faith, and community leaders to promote opportunities for every person in every neighborhood.

MAY 20, 2016

WORKSHOP SCHEDULE

8:15-9:00 am	Registration
9:00-10:00 am	Opening Session Development Trends Around Central Ohio (Pecha Kucha Style) - Presenters around the region will visually share with the audience exciting development happening throughout their communities.
Session 1 10:15-11:45 am Concurrent Sessions	A. Planning for Health and Active Transportation Strategies - Active transportation options are increasingly in high demand. Hear about the regional plan, learn about all the active transportation options and see how a public health agency is collaborating with planning partners to improve citizens' health. B. Who's on First? Untangling the Confusion of the Various Development Regulations - This panel presentation will provide the interpretation and application of the law from the perspective of legal and planning professionals. This session will satisfy the AICP Planning and Zoning Law requirement. C. Ethics for Planners - Learn how three city planners are utilizing their skills in three different ways and how planning ethics play out in their day-to-day roles. This session will satisfy the AICP Ethics requirement.
11:45-1:00 pm	Lunch Keynote Lunch Speaker - City of Columbus Mayor Andrew J. Ginther
Session 2 1:00-2:00 pm Concurrent Sessions	A. Wheels of Progress: A New Approach to Downtown Revitalization - The quest for relevance and vibrancy is an unending endeavor for downtowns across the country. This presentation will address two distinct approaches to downtown revitalization highlighting the cities of Wooster and Medina. B. Trimming the Fat: A Lean Approach to Subdivision Processes - In today's fiscally restrained world where government offices are getting smaller but the workload is not, many of us hear complaints about the "hoops" developers have to go through to get things done. This session will show how easy it can be to "cut the fat" of extra steps that may be part of the current processes within your office. C. Transportation Demand and Learning to Connect the Community - This two part session first looks at COTA's efforts to plan for servicing new mixed use developments and a new millennial generation that wants alternative methods of transportation. The second part will show how Ohio State underwent a comprehensive transportation planning process to connect their large, vibrant campus internally as well as externally with the City around it.
Session 3 2:15-3:15pm Concurrent Sessions	A. Funding Please! How to Put Together a Winning Grant Application - With funding for projects being difficult to obtain in today's environment, many agencies are looking to grants to move their projects forward. This panel session with funding experts will provide effective strategies to increase your chances of winning state and federal grants. B. The Next Disruptive Technology: How Autonomous Cars will Fundamentally Reshape Our Cities - Autonomous cars are coming very soon to a roadway near you. This technology is rapidly being developed and city planners must be on the forefront of understanding this technology to prepare for the potential impacts. This presentation will include modeled scenarios for potential impacts to roadway networks, neighborhood development, and site design. It will also include an expert in the field explaining how this technology is being developed right here in Central Ohio. C. Planning at the Crossroads: Searching for Agreement in Multijurisdictional Contexts - Fragmented approaches to development within multiple jurisdictions can make it difficult to plan holistically for growth and change. This case study outlining a development involving three counties, two cities, two townships, three school districts and three utility providers will provide important guidance for how to align interests in complex settings in order to shape a realistic and broadly supported vision for the future.
Session 4 3:30-4:30 pm	Closing Session Reflections on Public Discontent with Planning in Central Ohio - The past several years have been tumultuous for planning in a number of cities in Central Ohio. This panel discussion aims to start the discussion among the professional planning community about what we can do to better address and resolve community concerns and fears to build understanding and consensus for the continued success of our cities.
4:30-6:00 pm    After Hours Reception at the Renaissance Hotel

APA Ohio
P.O. Box 4085
Copley OH 44321

Renaissance Columbus
Downtown
50 North Third Street
Columbus, Ohio 43215

2016
Central Ohio
Planning &
Zoning Workshop

2016
Central Ohio

Planning &
Zoning Workshop
Friday, May 20th

Renaissance Columbus Downtown

50 North Third Street
Columbus, Ohio 43215

Organized by the Central Ohio Section of APA-Ohio

This event is made possible by the following sponsors:

AIA
Columbus

